

AMTM-Yarns Anti-Microbial Protection

JONES FAMILY OF COMPANIES

ANTI-MICROBIAL YARN

- Yarn blends with silver nanoparticles - an element found in nature
- Proven effective, stops the growth of destructive microbes that cause odor, discoloration, staining, and fiber breakdown.
- Silver nanoparticles are non-toxic and non-allergenic
- Environmentally-friendly; silver ions are non-leaching
- Unlike topical treatments AMTM yarn protection lasts the life of the yarn; will not wear or wash off
- AMTM yarns are completely safe for human contact
- Efficacy verified by SGS Laboratories

096004 series - Economy AM-Yarns [cotton, rayon, polyester blend]

506504 series - Premium AM Yarns [rayon, polyester blend]

JONES product innovation takes one more step on our journey along the “green path” with the new and improved AMTM anti-microbial yarns . The antimicrobial protection for the 096004 and 506504 series yarns is based on the natural antibacterial properties of silver. Jones AMTM yarns are spun with fibers infused with silver nanoparticles. These extremely small particles are introduced into the polyester fiber during the extrusion process. The treatment is not topical so the protection lasts for the life of the yarn; it will not wear or wash off. Silver ions are non-leaching, environmentally-friendly, non-toxic, non-allergenic and are completely safe for human contact. AMTM yarns are ideal for wet and dry mopping applications in food service, healthcare and commercial facilities with limited laundering capabilities. Bacteria, molds and mildew contribute to “mop-rot”. By their very nature, when a mop cleans a floor it picks up organic matter, soil, food particles, mold, mildew and even bacteria laden particulate. AMTM yarns resist the growth of destructive microbes that cause mop odor, yarn discoloration, yarn staining and fiber breakdown. Mops made with AMTM yarn reduce consumer costs by extending the service life of the mop.
